Message from the Director

BITS believes in the primary goal of education as economic advantage for the individual and the society. The curriculum of BITS including the Practice School programmes has been designed to make its graduates self reliant and confident professionals. For the last four decades, Practice School has been successfully performing the role of the modern day 'finishing schools'.

I can confidently say that our graduates are 'finished products' and not 'raw graduates'. Feedback from alumni and the placement companies has proved this point, time and again. I am certain that the placement companies would be more than satisfied with the calibre of our students.

I wish our graduating students a rewarding career.

K.E. RAMAN
